Keturah relishes in the activities taking place at the Festival at Shiloh. She dreams, of a not too distant future, which has been carefully and lovingly mapped out for her. She has few regrets for the choices in her life she's made. The day is nearly finished, and her dreams will finally be a reality. She takes her place in the vineyard to dance for the people of her village. While the drums beat, and she moves in step to the music, a luminous sun begins to slip beneath the horizon, radiating its last rays of color over the earth. It is hard for her to imagine that, in the next few moments, a change will take place, one she never envisioned. As everything in her former life is suddenly lost forever, and her world as she knew it, vanishes, she wonders how she will survive such an unwelcome twist. Has God abandoned her in her deepest need? Can she still count on his love? Will her faith in him see her through?.
