Excerpt: .of these are without date, address, or signature, to indicate when, for whom, or by whom they were prepared, nor are they arranged in chronological order. However, by internal evidence, by comparisons between them, and with other documents, and with the ai l of a few notes which passed between the parties chiefly concerned in framing the measure, it has been possible to identify most of them and trace the normal order of their development. 3 Canadian Archives, M. 385, p. 32G. This memorandum would appear to have been the outcome of one or more of the conferences of an inner circle of the Ministry, with special advisers such as Carleton, in dealing with American policy. The features suggested are not in accordance with any one of the Reports on the subject which had been made to the Government. Notwithstanding the numerous declarations, during the previous seven years, that the system of law and government in Quebec was on the point of being settled, the members of the Government chiefly responsible for the policy of the Quebec Act had not apparently given the matter very full consideration before the latter part of 1773, as may Igathered from the following statements. On Aug. 4th 1773, the Lord Chancellor sent the following note to Dartmouth, The Chancellor s Complime to L 1 Dartmouth, takes the liberty to send him some Papers relative to Canada, which together with the ReK)rts of the Kings Advocate, the Attorney Gen...
