Not illustrated. 1894 Excerpt: .and a small outlay would supply floor, roof, and walls. I had no mission money, and if I had I do not know that I should have used it for that purpose. I laid the matter before the church, and they voted to use some money that they had raised for home missions. They bought the house and paid for the needful repairs, the village people doing all the work. I had no money for a teacher, So I put one of my preachers in charge of the school. The people pay fees for their children, but only enough for a small part of the teacher s salary, so the rest has to come from the mission. Besides the school work he is to have Sunday-school and preaching services every Sunday, a prayer meeting every Wednesday, also evening prayers every evening in the week. Besides this, he will no doubt find and embrace many opportunities of speaking to the people personally, and may thus be able to convince the heathen and give the Christians farther instruction. There are several men there who say they are considering, and very many willing to listen. If I had the man and the money, I would like to have a church organized there before long. There are a number of women and old people who might be reached in that way who could not walk the nine miles to Zigon even once to receive baptism. There has been no place...
